Private Parts

Human body consists of various organ systems, and each of which comprises a number of organs, its function compliment one another that leads to coordination of the whole; all organs are equally significant and valuable to us. Being the master of your own body, you should treasure your life by protecting every single organ and ensure their proper functioning. Among all body parts, there are some we do not let people touch or look at them, we call them "private parts". The following are the names of our body parts, can you identify what are private parts, and match them with the categories below? Please fill out the answers in the boxes.

Head	Eyes	Penis	Nose
Chest	Buttocks	Mouth	Toes
Testicles	Arms	Ears	Vulva

Boys' Private Parts	Girls' Private Parts

Correct ! The sexual organs of both boys and girls are called "private parts". We should not let people touch or look at them; we should wear swimming suits when go swimming; we should also close the door while taking a bath. If a person tries to abuse your "private parts", you should speak up and say, "No, Stop it ! " Then go and tell an adult whom you trust. Now, can you think about whom do you trust? A person who loves you should always protect you from harm!

Customs and taboos in different countries also guide us differently in touching body parts of others, e.g., in Thailand, do not touch anyone on the head, as Thai people see their head as the highest body parts which deserves respect. Toes are also perceived as "uncleansed" (dirty), you should never show your toes in public while you visit Thailand. Be a smart kid, and follow the customs while you are visiting other countries.
